

Lansons Regulatory Forum

LANSONS

public affairs & regulatory consulting

At Lansons we are steadily building up our capability to provide regulatory advice and services to clients. We already have a large number of regulatory clients and a monthly newsletter. Now we are starting a six times a year regulatory forum.

Forum meetings will last 90 minutes and take place either at the start of the day, with a light breakfast, or at the end of the day with a glass of wine afterwards.

The plan is for there to be two brief presentations, one by a speaker external to Lansons, on topical regulatory subjects. There will then be a Q and A and a short debate about the subject.

The outcome we hope to achieve is that you will be able to gauge your own position on the topic with others. The agenda will very much be driven by invitees and we shall be regularly asking them what issues they would like to hear about. We have already asked selected people for views on content and run a pilot forum.

Now we are going live so please put these dates and times in your diary:

- ❖ Wednesday 18 May 08.30 to 10.00
- ❖ Wednesday 13 July 16.30 to 18.00
- ❖ Wednesday 14 September 08.30 to 10.00
- ❖ Tuesday 29 November 16.30 to 18.00

On 18th May we shall be considering to what extent advisers are RDR ready and whether they really know what is required. We shall also be looking at the latest position on the Government's proposal to reform the regulatory framework. By that time we should have the draft legislation for pre-legislative scrutiny. Our speakers will be Roderic Rennison, an independent consultant and Richard Hobbs, Director, Regulatory Consulting at Lansons.
